C-TPAT is a voluntary government-business initiative to build cooperative relationships that strengthen and improve overall international supply chain and U.S. border security. C-TPAT recognizes that U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) can provide the highest level of cargo security only through close cooperation with the ultimate owners of the international supply chain such as importers, carriers, consolidators, licensed customs brokers, and manufacturers. Through this initiative, CBP is asking businesses to ensure the integrity of their security practices and communicate and verify the security guidelines of their business partners within the supply chain.

C-TPAT offers trade-related businesses an opportunity to play an active role in the war against terrorism. By participating in this first worldwide supply chain security initiative, companies will ensure a more secure and expeditious supply chain for their employees, suppliers and customers.

In addition to helping the United States fight terrorism, C-TPAT membership also carries numerous more tangible benefits. Members of C-TPAT are less subject to customs inspections, and will be routed to the front of customs lines when they do need to be inspected. They can also take advantage of C-TPAT trainings for themselves and their employees, to learn about more ways to tighten the security of their supply chain. If routine inspection reveals non-compliance, C-TPAT membership is revoked and the company must re-certify.
